

Using the Enneagram in Couples' Therapy

We find the Enneagram to be the most useful tool we have in our therapeutic toolbox. It is particularly useful with couples, helping them develop a deep empathetic appreciation of what motivates their partner, helping cut through patterns of blame and recrimination, and enabling each partner to learn to adapt their style accordingly. At a deeper level, the Enneagram supports each partner in the relationship in a process of profound self-observation that can facilitate spiritual growth and enhance intimacy within the couple.

In this workshop, designed for graduates of Using the Enneagram in Clinical Practice, we will explore:

- ◆ Approaches to Discerning Type Depending on Interest Level of Each Member of the Couple
- ◆ Predictable Difficulties that Develop in Certain Pairings
- ◆ Differentiating between Difficulties Due to Type vs Subtype
- ◆ Recognizing Subtype Needs to Enhance Relational Satisfaction
- ◆ Strategies for Supporting Partners in Developing More Flexibility within Type

This workshop will include interviews with couples who have worked with and learned to overcome some of the difficulties associated with predictable type dynamics.
